GARBAGE

Clean seas is North's loss prevention initiative to promote good practice and compliance with environmental legislation.

Clean seas requires ship operators to implement a garbage management plan that fulfils the requirements of international and local legislation.

Clean seas requires accurate recording of garbage quantities and disposal documentation to demonstrate that the plan is being followed.

Clean seas can be achieved with on-board training to promote best practice and ensure compliance with the company's garbage management procedures.

Clean seas can only be achieved by adopting good working practices on board.
