Introducing MyGlobeView

North P&I Club today announces the launch of MyGlobeView, an advanced interactive geographical information portal exclusively for North entered Members and correspondents.

MyGlobeView is our latest digital resource, further enhancing our global service offering to meet the evolving needs of our Members. This new digital resource builds on the success of our public-facing GlobeView platform and offers greater personalisation combined with a broader range of regularly updated data sources to assist those involved in shipping operations. New data sources available at launch, with more to follow over the coming months, include:

- Additional trading and commercial risk data, including current P&I risks and OFAC updates.
- Richer port information including port infrastructure points, lines and areas.
- Meteorological information, highlighting tidal patterns and active hurricanes.
- Travel advice from the UK, USA, Australia and Canada.
- Our First Call contact information for USA ports.
- A news feed detailing updates from reputable trade news outlets.

A full breakdown of the differences between GlobeView and MyGlobeView can be read in our FAQs.

You can access MyGlobeView through your MyNorth account and save your individual preferences, ensuring quick and easy access to the most relevant and timely information. Instructions can be found in our easy to use ‘How-To guide’.

If you haven't yet registered for your MyNorth account, you can do so here.

MyGlobeView has been produced in conjunction with our partner Geollect, an innovative geospatial intelligence company. Geollect and North are working together to provide information, analysis and assessments relating to the commercial risks and threats faced by the shipping industry and seafarers, around the world. This is complemented by commercial and security risk information provided by Gray Page, a specialist maritime consulting group, with wide-ranging expertise in providing intelligence services, investigating cargo theft, losses, damage and fraud.
