The in-house FD&D team at North P&I Club has been shortlisted as a finalist for the Litigation Team Award at the prestigious 2017 European Counsel Awards along with HSBC Holdings plc, Volkswagen AG and OAO Gazprom.

The awards, organised by Lexology and the International Law Office (ILO), together with the Association of Corporate Counsel (ACC), identify and recognise the very best in-house legal teams based in Europe.

In order to identify the finalists in each category, the independent research team conducted an in-depth analysis of in-house lawyers and legal departments worldwide, receiving more than 3,500 nominations globally. The respondents were asked to focus on key business criteria such as effective communication, legal understanding, commercial awareness, management skills and the strength and depth of the team. The winners will be announced at a Gala Dinner in London on 2 March 2017.

Global Director of North's FD&D team, Katherine Birchall, said "Our shortlisting for this award has only been possible thanks to the hard work, commitment, skill and dedication of everyone who works in the FD&D team."

Paul Jennings Joint Managing Director at North commented "To be shortlisted as a finalist for the 2017 Litigation Team award is a fantastic achievement and is a real testament to the strength and specialist expertise of North's in-house FD&D team headed up by Katherine Birchall."
