

Clean Seas Spills

Clean seas is North's loss prevention initiative to promote good practice and compliance with environmental legislation.

Clean seas demand careful planning and interdepartmental cooperation when oil transfer operations are required.

Clean seas are dependent on crew familiarisation with national and international environmental legislation.

Clean seas require the crew to be trained in the implementation of company procedures associated with oil transfer, and strict compliance with the vessel's SOPEP/SMPEP plan.

Clean seas and spill containment require comprehensive spill prevention measures to be implemented before oil transfer operations commence.

Clean seas can only be achieved by adopting good working practices on board.
